BRITAINS AND THE TARIFF

No Dismay Like That Over the McKinley Act.

CHEAP GERMAN GOODS BARRED

Cutlery-Makers and Spinners Find the Measure Little Worse Than the Wilson Bill—The London Sporting Bill Doomed to Failure—Farewell Dinner to Sir Alfred Milnes.

London, March 27.—Collating opinion from various centers interested in the McKinley tariff, the representative here of the United Associated Presses finds in no quarter anything approaching the dismay which fell upon British traders when the tariff of 1890 was announced. The new tariff has been scarcely, of course, with the greatest interest, but almost with confidence. It conveyed no shock of surprise.

Mr. W. H. Horaby, M. P., for Blackburn, one of the largest cotton spinners in Lancashire, says that the changes will not affect cotton industries in any material way. The current opinion in Liverpool and Manchester is the same. Sheffield reports that the cutlery trade will not be "in a worse position than under the Wilson act." One of the principal cutlery manufacturers goes so far as to say that the new bill is a step in the direction of bringing about a more honest system of business, that the object of the American manufacturers was obviously to stop the tremendous competition that exporters from the Germans, who, through a system of low valuations, really defeated the object of the present tariff.

America was thus flooded with cheap German goods. The revision would chiefly affect the low-priced goods, and while affecting cheap Sheffield products in common with the German, would place Sheffield in a good position for meeting German cheap competition. Another large cutler says it may rather the Germans who estimate a trade with America in the cheapest goods. Generally speaking, he holds that it will make no practical difference to the Sheffield trade.

Leeds reports that the new tariff will be prohibitive as far as some classes of woolen fabrics exported to the United States are concerned. Worsted will be hit heavily, and so Bradford and Huddersfield will suffer much. But stringent as the tariff is, it does not take the Leeds manufacturer by surprise. Leeds expects as much, and the manufacturers are rather gratified than otherwise by a relief from uncertainty.

The threat of the tariff from Birmingham, Glasgow, and Dundee is similar. It should be added that every center records a run of orders from the United States for goods to be delivered before the revised duties go into operation.

What pressure sporting men in Parliament can bring to bear upon the government to support a bill for legalizing letting in the ring, has been tried without success. The licensing of bookmakers' men tends still to many members, who see no harm in legal recognition of a practice which may be called national. But no government could face the hurricane of reproach which would arise in the solid body of electors whose influence when aroused decides the fates of governments.

A bill will be introduced by private members and will get strong support. But no minister will venture support in his administrative capacity, and if the measure gets to a second reading, its rejection is certain. The bookmakers' shop is summarily closed and probably forever. If the anti-betting league follows up its victory, betting as now practiced by nearly all classes, will become impossible. A new London daily paper, something on the lines of the New York Herald's London venture, is projected and will appear early in April.

The frontiers are well on their work at the west front of St. Paul's Cathedral for the removal of the scaffolding which has been erected for the Queen's diamond jubilee. As yet the piles of scaffolding conceal the intended alterations. Unless the roof is used for coigns of vantage for lighters very few of the public will see anything of the ceremony. There are singularly few windows in the vicinity from which it would be possible to get a full view of the Queen at the service. The space around Queen Anne's statue will be occupied by the suites of distinguished guests and by troops.

When the political activity of the admiralty has subsided, Mr. Goschen intends to return favorably to the consideration of the dispatch of an exploring expedition to the Antarctic Ocean. Everybody now recognizes that such an undertaking carried on with the active assistance of the admiralty, assisted by scientific experts. It is quite likely that a suitable ship will be commissioned shortly for the purpose.

The new expenses clause of the Amateur Athletic Association's law is still a source of heart burning to disqualified amateurs and to the stricter "gentlemen athletes." The proposed rule legalizes the refunding of actual out-of-pocket hotel and traveling expenses to men who may be taking part in competitions at a distance, and even then the payment must be made presumably by the club sending the competitor and not by the club promoting the sports.

The farewell dinner to Sir Alfred Milnes, the new governor of Cape Colony, tonight, will present a notable burying of the hatchet among rivals in public life. Around the same friendly table at the Cafe Monico will be Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Bulwer, Lord Rosebery, Sir William Harcourt, the Marquis of Lansdowne, Viscount Peel, Sir John Morley and many others. Mr. Asquith, an old college friend of Sir Alfred Milnes, will preside.

Time has healed the bitterness of the home rule battles with most men, but between Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Rosebery and the latter and Sir William Harcourt there have as yet been no the stiffest courtesies and bitter-sweet public allusions.

THEY MAY NOT VOTE AT ALL

Three Silver Republicans' Attitude Regarding the Tariff Bill.

Hartman, Newlands and Sharfath Will Support It, However, If They Do Vote.

The three silver Republicans of the House—Hartman, Newlands and Sharfath—will probably not vote on the Dingley bill at all. But if they vote they will support the measure.

Representative Sharfath stated his own position on the bill to The Times as follows:
"I believe in giving the Republicans every chance to pass their tariff bill. I want the whole tariff question out of the way in the next elections, so that nothing but the silver question will be before the people. Then the gold Republicans cannot 'backslide' the people and the silver question will be before the people. I do not believe that all I need to restore prosperity is a tariff bill. Of course, I do not believe that the Dingley bill will restore prosperity. We must solve the currency question first before we can hope for that. On principle I am a protectionist, although there are some details of the bill I do not like. While I have no confidence in the bill as a prosperityrestorer, I believe the best interests of the silver cause and of the people will be best served by its passage."

Representative Hartman, of Montana, does not expect to vote on the bill at all.
"If my vote were necessary to pass the bill," said he, "I believe I would vote for it for the purpose of getting it out of the way and giving the McKinley Republicans a fair chance to show what a failure they will make with their gold standard, even with the assistance of the very tariff they desire."

Representative Jones, of Washington, will vote against the Dingley bill.
Representative Albert M. Todd, the only Prohibitionist in the House, is against the bill. He comes from the old silver state and is a member of the House for high tariff. He says: "I am opposed to the Dingley bill, because I believe it is false in theory, false in name, and will operate in direct violation of the promises made to the industrial classes of this country in the recent campaign which brought the party into power which is forcing this measure of taxation upon the industrial classes of this nation. And it is because I wish to protect American labor, and the legitimate interests of this country from the unparalleled distress that now threatens our independence that I enter my earnest protest against this monstrous attempt of the trusts and combines and their ally, the money power of this country and Europe, under the guise of 'protection to American industry,' to fasten upon the industrial classes and consumers this increased burden of taxation, without providing equitable compensation therefor."

BALTIMORE AND OHIO FINANCES.

Affairs of the Company Said to Be Approaching a Crisis.

Baltimore, March 27.—Hambilton & Co today devote considerable space in their weekly circular to a discussion of Baltimore and Ohio finances. The circular informs that the receivers have expended about $7,000,000 in improvements, betterments and equipment, and have, in addition thereto, contracted for $1,000,000 worth of new rails, the circular analyses the present financial status of the company as follows:

The statement of receipts and disbursements for the month of January shows, including cash in treasury, January 1, $388,000, a total of $3,398,419.44, disbursements, $3,174,228.07, balance January 31, $224,191.37. The terminal improvement fund showed a balance of $610, $27.80; receivers' certificates, No. 1, $345,727.14; receivers' certificates, No. 2, all spent, and series No. 3 (Pittsburg and Connellsville), $579,720.

As the terminal improvement fund and receivers' certificates are re-marketed and can be used only for special purposes, there remained applicable to payment of special accounts and betterments, on January 31, only $345,727.14 from the proceeds of the $6,000,000 6 percent receivers' certificates.

As this statement was made nearly sixty days since, this fund must be now about exhausted and the affairs of the company are approaching a crisis, at which must be determined how fresh money can be raised.

Can't Accompany the President.

Secretary Long has definitely accepted an invitation to go to Boston April 30 to attend the unveiling of a statue to Robert T. Shaw. This will prevent him accompanying other members of the Cabinet, and possibly the President, to West Point on the same date, where ex-President Harrison will deliver an address.

GERMANS CHANGING FRONT

Part Played by the Powers in Cretan Waters Deplored.

SENSELESS INTERVENTION

Leading Journals Characterize the Bombardment of Cretan Insurgents as a Disgrace—Departure of More German Ships Will Be Viewed With Misgivings.

Berlin, March 27.—The current of German opinion has set in strongly against what is known as the "Kaiser policy" regarding Greece, not in the columns of the Liberal press alone, but in those of newspapers which have hitherto been giving their support to the policy of intervention in Crete on the part of the powers. These journals have taken a new tack and are now deplored the part which the united squadrons of the powers are playing and are likely to play in Cretan and Greek waters.

An example of this newspaper opinion is shown in an article in the National Zeitung commenting upon the official announcement of the share taken in the naval concert by Germany's cruiser Augusta Victoria in bombarding the Cretan insurgents, which characterizes the affair as an unheard of disgrace, adding that nothing more is needed to prove that the intervention of the powers is futile.

The Vossische Zeitung, in an article on the same subject, says: "The senseless and brutal act of intervention on the part of Germany in Greece may well be the last that Germany takes part in.
Nobody could witness the departure of more German ships and German troops for Cretan waters without grave misgivings and anxiety. The German navy can leave such a task without jealousy to other nations."

The paper concludes its article by saying: "The first step to be taken is the immediate withdrawal of the Turkish troops from Crete. That public sentiment will influence the Kaiser is outside the bounds of probability, but when the government speaks in the Reichstag try to influence that body, as they did in today's debate on the naval credits, by adjoining the paucity of the German share in the naval demonstrations of the powers in the East, as compared with the fleets of the other nations, their arguments fall flat, as they did today, in the face of the fact that Germany prefers not to co-operate with the other powers in any measures of coercion of Greece."

The rejection of the government's demands for increased naval credits by the Reichstag is a foregone conclusion, but there is no public excitement over the matter. In connection with the rejection of the credits the old stories are being repeated that Prince Bismarck, the imperial counselor, is desirous of having relieved of the cares of office, pleading advanced age and the infirmities thereof, and it is also said that if Prince Bismarck retires Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, minister of foreign affairs, will resign also.

The emperor is in expectation that the Reichstag will reject the naval credit proposals and is concluding an arrangement with the Krupps for the construction of two cruisers after plans furnished by the government, under an agreement that if the Reichstag shall refuse to grant the credits necessary to pay for the building of the cruisers for 1898 are submitted the Krupps will be allowed to sell the ships to any foreign power wishing to purchase them.
In the meantime the Krupps are to have a year's credit at the imperial treasury.

The importance of the vote in the Reichstag yesterday in favor of paying salaries to members of that body is likely to be misconstrued. Already the Reichstag has nine times affirmed the principle of the payment of salaries or fees to members of that chamber, and as often has the Bundesrath vetoed the measure, and the same fate certainly awaits the resolution that was adopted yesterday, providing that the state pay fees and traveling expenses to members of the lower body. The resolution was offered by Herr Richter, the Radical leader, but it found supporters in all of the groups.

The columns of the newspapers are still given up to criticisms of the Emperor William I centenary fetes, which were held on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.
Apart from the semi-official organs many of the papers protest against the excessive glorification of the old Kaiser.

The Vossische Zeitung advises that the phrase "William the Great" be left to the verdict of future generations.
The illness with which Prince Bismarck is afflicted is not serious, and is due to a chill which seized him while walking in the park. Count Herbert Bismarck, the excuse of the Kaiser's eldest son, left Friedrichsruhe yesterday.

Mr. H. G. Squires, second secretary of the United States embassy, and Mrs.
Squires, were the guests of Freiherr von Der Recke von Der Horst, Prussian minister of the interior, at dinner this week, and United States Ambassador Uhl and Secretary Squires were entertained at dinner by the Italian ambassador, Count Lan-di Dusea.

SMALLPOX IN CUBA.

Raging in Havana and Increasing All the While.

Reports received by Supervising Inspector General Wm. de la Torre, Marine Hospital Service up to March 20 show that small-pox is raging in Havana, and is increasing instead of diminishing. During the last week for which returns have been received 850 new cases were reported, with 91 deaths. Five of the victims were Spanish soldiers. At Cardenas 400 cases and 53 deaths is the record for a single week.
Fifty cases and five deaths are reported from Matanzas for two weeks.

Yellow fever is also prevalent in Cuba.
Ten deaths occurred in Havana during the week ended March 15. Nine of these ten victims were Spanish soldiers.

Mail Carrying Contracts.

A bill of much interest to contractors for the carrying of mails was offered in the House by Mr. Cooper, of Texas. The measures provide that no contract for carrying the mail in the United States, on routes known as "star routes," shall be let to any person or persons other than actual bona fide residents of the State or States through which said mail route shall run or extend.

"Jenness Miller" Shoe Anniversary.

No book published in the interest of women has been more highly commended by critics and the press than Mrs. Jenness Miller's book "Physical Beauty." Its 250 pages tell how to make the most of one's own possibilities. Some of the chapters are "Dress in all Ages," "The care of the Skin, the Eyes, the Teeth, the Hair, Feet and Hands." The important chapter about the feet contains illustrations of shoes from the earliest period.

One lady writes:
"A single suggestion in your fascinating book has been worth a thousand times its cost to me."

A COPY WILL BE GIVEN WITH EVERY PAIR OF "JENNESS MILLER" SHOES SOLD THE COMING WEEK.

Don't be deceived. The "Jenness Miller" Shoes are not to be had at other shoe stores, and none are genuine unless stamped with Mrs. Jen-
